Williamsport School Closing Rumors Untrue

Questions and comments which have arisen on the issue of Williamsport elementary school building will be answered for all concerned in a special meeting Tuesday night at the school.

Westfall Superintendent Donald Shearer reported today that rumors of the building being condemned and classes stopped immediately were false.

Two inspections have been made of the structure by state officials.

The first, by the Industrial Commission, reported the structure to have a number of defects "great enough to fill a large volume." He reported that most had been present for years. While the Commission did not approve the building for classes, it did not condemn it.

ACCORDING to Shearer, the representative of the State Fire Marshal's office also made an inspection in late February, but here more definite action was taken.

The inspector presented the school system with a list of certain repairs which must be made by April 2.

At the regular Board of Education meeting Monday night, members will deliberate over the reports from both offices and make their decision for action based on that information.

This decision will be relayed to Williamsport citizens in a special meeting 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the village school.

Shearer carefully explained that "no official action" has been taken by any of the state departments to close the school. Careful consideration of all points in the issue will be taken by the board in their deliberation.

An incident in one classroom last month when a boy was struck by falling plaster touched off the issue with the Williamsport school. The youth received a bruised shoulder from the blow.

Senate OKs Appalachia Aid Package

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has approved a $1.5 billion, four-year extension of the Appalachia program in the face of President Nixon's proposal to drop the depressed area project and substitute nationwide revenue sharing.

The 13-state Appalachian aid program was sent to the House. Before the 77-to-3 passage Thursday, the Senate adopted by voice vote an amendment sponsored by Sen. Norris Cotton, R-N.H., authorizing $127 million to finance a one-year extension of five other existing regional commissions and two being established.

Republican leaders denied that Senate approval of the regional aid plan could be construed as rejection of nationwide revenue sharing. But passage did put a knot in the President's hopes of phasing out the Appalachian Regional Commission in one year and replacing it with a program of federal revenue sharing for rural community development.

The bill provides for a four-year, $571-million extension of the 1965 Appalachian Regional Development Act. The money is earmarked for education, housing, health and restoration of areas scarred by mining.

In addition, the bill would provide $925 million for five years starting in fiscal 1973 to build highways in the Appalachian states, and $40 million for general improvements and airport safety equipment.

Mills, Nixon Clash Over Textile Plans

President Says Japan's Offer Not A Solution

WASHINGTON (AP) — The emotion-filled issue of textile imports has set up another confrontation between President Nixon and Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, the most powerful member of Congress in the field of taxes and foreign trade.

The President and the Arkansas Democrat, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, already are antagonists on revenue sharing, a prime Nixon project Mills says he will fight to the end. But the textile quarrel injects a strong personal element into the disagreement.

Mills, dealing directly with Japanese leaders, had been a principal mover in bringing about an offer by the Japanese textile industry to curb imports to the United States.

Although free-trade congressmen praised Mills' efforts, the U.S. textile industry objected strongly to the Japanese offer as inadequate.

Nixon came out on the U.S. industry's side Thursday, saying the Japanese program "will not result in an acceptable solution."

In addition, the President ordered Secretary of Commerce Maurice H. Stans to monitor monthly imports of wool and manmade-textile products from Japan.

Alternative solutions to the textile problem, the White House said, include pressing Congress for quota legislation, and direct negotiations between the United States and other textile countries, mainly Hong Kong, Taiwan and South Korea.

The House, with Mills' support, passed a bill covering textile quotas last year. However, Mills said repeatedly he would prefer a negotiated solution and, after the bill died in the Senate, he renewed efforts for an agreement.

In a tart rejoinder to Nixon's statement, he said:

"Obviously our trade problems go far beyond just the question of textiles and I cannot understand how under any circumstances a statutory program for the protection of a single industry can be developed which is exclusive of consideration of statutory programs for other deeply affected industries..."

Republican leaders denied that Senate approval of the regional aid plan could be construed as rejection of nationwide revenue sharing. Army Hero Sets Charges Of More Viet Atrocities

Ribicoff Says Rivers Helped Cole

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., charged today the late Rep. Mendel Rivers, chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, tried and failed to kill a Senate investigation into the conduct of former Army Brig. Gen. Earl F. Cole.

"Mendel Rivers did intervene with the acting chairman of this subcommittee to try to stop this investigation and Mendel Rivers did not succeed," Ribicoff told Cole.

Ribicoff made the charge during a Senate investigations subcommittee hearing in which the former general again denied all wrongdoing on his part connected with alleged corruption in clubs and PXs under his control in Vietnam.

Cole brought up Rivers' name, saying that in September 1969 Cole had called Rivers, asking him to talk to Ribicoff to arrange an appointment for Cole to call him on the phone.

At that time, Cole had just been relieved from command of the European post Exchange system and he testified he feared "I would be sold down the river" in the investigation he knew had been initiated by the Senate subcommittee.

He said he later called Ribicoff's office, but that the administrative assistant he spoke to never called him back as promised.

"At no time was I given an opportunity early in the investigation to tell my side of the story," Cole said.

Ribicoff then intervened with his charge Congressman Rivers tried to stop the investigation.

Ribicoff, the acting chairman of the subcommittee, did not immediately give other details. Rivers died Dec. 28.

Today's subcommittee hearing proceeded without the service of civil rights leader Whitney Young.

Young, executive director of the National Urban League, died Thursday while swimming in the surf near Lagos. He was here for a conference to increase understanding between Africans and Americans.

Black and white members of the U.S. delegation to the conference will deliver eulogies at a memorial service Saturday at Christ Church Anglican Cathedral. The speakers will include Bayard Rustin, Rep. John Conyers, D-Mich., the Rev. Jesse Jackson of Operation Breadbasket, former U.S. Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark and John Lewis, former head of the Student ices of Carmine Bellino, a veteran staff member.

The 65-year-old Bellino, who once served as a White House troubleshooter for President John F. Kennedy, was felled Thursday afternoon by what associates called an apparent heart attack.

His illness prevented immediate presentation of his months-long study of Cole's accounts and of operations involving entrepreneur William J.

Crum and others connected by testimony with alleged corruption in sales to PXs and service clubs in Vietnam.

Jerome Adlerman, chief counsel of the Senate permanent investigations subcommittee, said financial records prepared by Bellino for presentation today would take weeks for another accountant to unravel.

"I don't know now I can put it on now," Adlerman said.

At the end of 3½ hours of testimony, he said.

Revco Drug Store Robbed; Suspects Caught, Jailed

Four armed robbery suspects were apprehended within 20 minutes of a holdup of the Revco Drug Store at the corner of Court and Main Sts. Thursday.

Circleville Police received a call at 7:38 p.m. yesterday from Mildred Swank, a clerk at the store, that an armed robbery was taking place.

By the time police arrived at the scene, the gunmen had fled with nearly $670 in cash. No drugs were taken.

An alert witness was able to give police an accurate description of the car and the Pickaway County Sheriff's Department, Ohio State Highway Patrol and other area authorities were alerted.

Twenty minutes later the car was stopped at the old Hartman Farm on Route 23 by the Ohio State Highway Patrolman Charles Cotton and Hamilton Twp. constable Clinton Cooper.

Four Columbus residents were in the car. They were identified by police as Thomas McCoy, Joe Henry McCoy, Walter Welch and Shannon Welch and were arrested on two counts each of armed robbery.

The four men appeared in Circleville Municipal Court today and requested a preliminary hearing. Judge Sterling Lamb set a tentative date of March 18 for the hearing and set bond at $25,000 on each count for each man.

Police charged the men on two counts because cash registers at the rear of the store and at the front of the store were robbed.

Investigation of the robbery is being conducted by Sgt. Rod List, Patrolmen Jerry Smallwood and Larry Jirles of the Circleville Police Department.

In addition to Mrs. Swank and druggist Carl Longoia, there were four customers in the store at the time of the holdup.

Says Higher Commanders Covered Up

FT. McPHERSON, Ga. (AP) — A four-times wounded Army lieutenant colonel says he plans to file charges today against two fellow officers whom he accuses of failing to investigate and report the alleged torture and murder of Vietnamese civilians.

Lt. Col. Anthony B. Herbert said Thursday he would bring federal court charges against Maj. Gen. John Barnes and Col. J. Ross Franklin, former commander and deputy commander of the 173rd Airborne Brigade.

Herbert said he was afraid the Army would allow time under the statute of limitations to expire without acting on his accusations.

In Washington, the Army issued a statement saying, "The allegations of Herbert are still the subject of an active investigation by the U.S. Army Criminal Investigations Detachment."

"Of the total of 19 criminal allegations made by Lt. Col. Herbert," a Pentagon spokesman said, "two had been the subject of previously completed CID investigations, five more have been investigated and determined to be unfounded, while the balance are still being actively investigated."

Barnes is presently assigned to the Pentagon and Franklin is assigned to Vietnam. They made no immediate comment on Herbert's accusations.

Herbert said in an interview he witnessed the killing of a Vietnamese woman "whose throat was cut by a military intelligence unit made up of Vietnamese but headed by an American Lieutenant."

He said that shortly after turning a group of prisoners over to the unit, he was told four of them had been killed. He witnessed the throat cutting when he went to order the killing stopped, he said.

He demanded the prisoners be returned to his charge, Herbert said, but later learned from a sergeant he placed in charge of their safe removal that the intelligence unit took the prisoners by force and killed them all.

Another time, Herbert said, he "tore the wires" off a young Vietnamese woman who was being tortured with electrical shocks from the generator of a field telephone.

Franklin told him that "if you ever interfere again, you'll not be permitted to go" where prisoners were being interrogated, Herbert said.

The officer said he knew of a noncom who served with intelligence, identified only as a Sgt. Stemme, who was disciplined and reduced in rank because of his efforts to prevent the torture of prisoners (Continued on Page 2)

Burger Pushes Court Reforms

Congestion Seen Worse

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (AP) — Chief Justice Warren E. Burger proposed today a national center to help state courts avert a crisis of congestion.

In a speech to a national judiciary conference, Burger said the courts are "suffering from a severe case of deferred maintenance."

He said Americans may lose patience with a system hardly changed since the 18th century, particularly when they wait up to four years to have a civil suit tried "while they witness a flagrant defiance of law by a growing number of law-breakers."

"The noblest legal principles will be sterile and meaningless if they cannot be made to work," the chief justice said.

His proposed national center would help the states pool ideas about reforming their courts. He suggested close cooperation with the American Bar Association and other bar groups.

A similar center already is in operation to assist the federal courts. Meanwhile, largely at the urging of Burger, federal and state judges in 32 states have set up informal councils to develop cooperation between their two systems.

As evidence of an "impending crisis in the courts," Burger said most criminals are not arrested or tried, those who are caught and charged are not tried quickly and those who are convicted are not punished promptly because of delays in the appeals process.

In the civil area, he said people who cannot afford the high cost of litigation but are too well off to qualify for legal aid "are forced to stand by in frustration and often in want, while they watch the passage of time eat up the value of their case."

3 Education Bills Close Ohio Assembly's 9th Week

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Three bills to make education in Ohio efficient and solvent were introduced into the 109th General Assembly Thursday, as the legislature closed out its ninth work week.

Two of the three bills came from Sens. Ralph Regula, R-29 Navaree and Oliver Ocasek, D-27 Akron.

The first would revise the school foundation program — the state's subsidy system for education — to raise the level of state aid to school districts.

The other, similar to an earlier Senate bill authored by Sen. Stanley Aronoff, R-8 Cincinnati, calls for the creation of education resource centers throughout the state to streamline and combine certain administrative procedures, including purchasing, and to coordinate special education.

It would eventually eliminate Ohio's 88 county boards of education.

A tax measure, introduced in to the House by Rep. Robert E. Netzel, R-7 Laura, would authorize school boards to levy an income tax of up to one per cent, and counties to levy an income tax of up to one-half per cent.

Other measures among the 34 introduced Thursday included bills dealing with consumer protection, marijuana and illegitimate children.

Both houses will return from their long weekend Monday evening to hear Gov. John J. Gilligan present his budget.

Netzel introduced the bill excluding mothers who have illegitimate children from qualifying for Aid to Dependent Children benefits. The bill also calls and attempts to have atrocities investigated.

Herber, a tall, crew-cut combat veteran of 22 years Army service, said in the interview that while commander of the brigade's 2nd Battalion for 58 days during 1969 he reported incidents of murder and torture of civilians to Franklin and, through him, to Barnes.

He said the legal deadline for bringing charges against the two senior officers is April 4, two years after his last attempt to have Barnes and Franklin investigate incidents of murder and torture.

The Army began an investigation of his accusations last September — after he threatened to take the matter into federal court — Herber said, but the completion date for the probe has been set back several times. He said the Army now says it will complete the investigation April 1.

Since the probe began, Barnes has been promoted from brigadier general to major general.

Franklin, Herber's immediate superior during his brief tenure as battalion commander with the 173rd, subsequently served on the special commission which investigated the possibility of a coverup of the alleged atrocities which occurred during the 1968 assault on My Lai.

Herbert, a native of Hemet, Pa., now is serving with the military personnel branch at 3rd Army headquarters.

He served six months as inspector general of the brigade commanded by Barnes before being assigned to a command position.

During his 58 days as battalion commander, Herber said, he reported to Franklin one murder and three instances of the torturing of civilians which he witnessed, and two murders and several other instances of murder which were reported to him.

The deputy commander "told me he would take care of it," Herber said, but also told him "I was a liar; that I was exaggerating; that I should keep quiet about these things."

"He said the intelligence people knew what they were doing, that I didn't understand guerrilla warfare," said the officer, who was wounded four times in Korea and counts among his decorations the Silver Star with three oak leaf clusters.

Two tax measures were introduced into the House. One would exempt persons over 65 from paying county or municipal taxes on motor vehicle license. An identical measure was dropped into the Senate hopper.

The second tax bill would allow local governments to increase from 50 to 70 per cent their share of estate taxes.

Rep. Tom Fris, D-86, and Frederick Young, R-84, both of Dayton, contributed two consumer bills to protect signors of promissory notes and contracts.

In the upper chamber, a resolution was introduced calling for a study by the Legislative Service Commission of the sociological, economic and legal aspects of the use of marijuana.

The Senate passed and sent to the governor the session's first bill to correct errors made in the last session and to strike from the law certain obsolete statutes.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Ann Magstadt is 15, blonde and bubbly, sometimes even given to girlish giggling. A high school sophomore, she's enthusiastic about skiing—and also about her new duties as a deaconess of First Congregational church in suburban Robbinsdale.

Kirk Atkinson, also 15 and a sophomore, is a deacon at the same church.

The youth rise to office was begun at the 17th annual meeting of First Church, a congregation of 746 members. In past years, the meetings frequently had been ho-hum affairs, says Pastor George Macaulay.

But this time, it was different. What happened reflects a general trend in the churches of most denominations toward an increasing voice for youth, both at the local level and on national agencies.

Younger people are sharing the reins.

At the First Church annual meeting, several high school and college students showed up for the first time and made themselves heard. When the nominating committee's slate was presented, there wasn't the usual cut and dried quick motion for acceptance and election.

Why, the young people asked, were none of their age group nominated?

15 - Year - Olds Congregational Deaconesses

The board has 18 members and more than one should be a person of student age, the young people argued. Maybe next year, they were told.

"I'm not sure we'll be interested next year," a high school pupil persisted.

The discussion, recalls the Rev. Mr. Macaulay, turned into a genuine confrontation. Some of the older persons argued against increased youth representation; others, including Mrs. William Kuether, backed the young people.

Mrs. Kuether, a candidate of the nominating committee for a three-year deaconess term, withdrew and asked that a youth be chosen instead. Miss Magstadt was nominated. Her election was unanimous.

A few days later, the deaconate received another resignation from William Middleton, a holdover member and a deacon or elder for 20 years.

"Hopefully, you will appoint one of our young people to fill my unexpired term," he wrote.

The board chose young Atkinson to replace Middleton.

"I was tickled to death to see the young people ask to serve," says Middleton. "They can bring vigor and new thought to our church, and learn a lot about our church at the same time."

Says Mrs. Kuether:

"I see no reason why a young girl can't do as well as I could. How can the young people really get a feeling for the church unless they truly become involved. I was delighted to step aside."

The Rev. Mr. Macaulay says he can't account for it but there's a new "youth swing" in the parish and he's happy to see it grow.

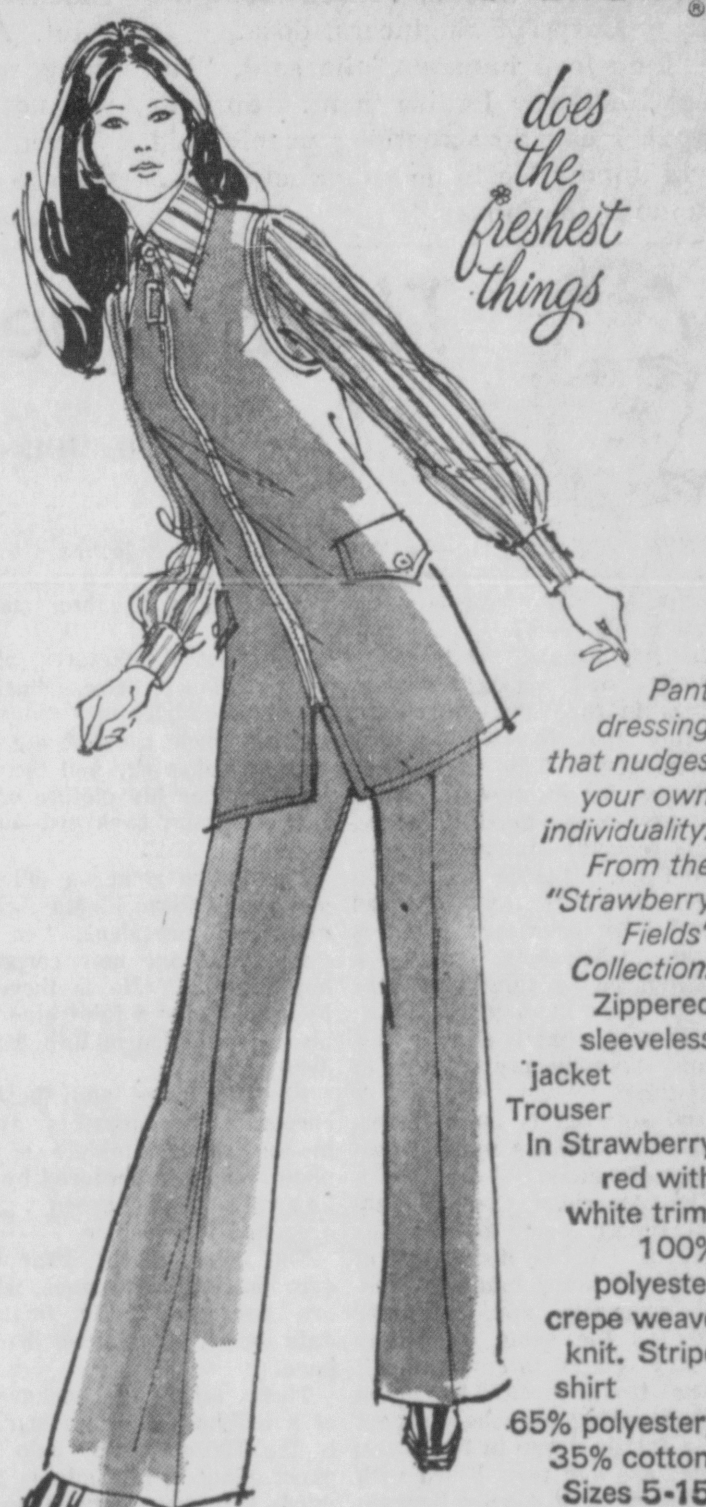

"The young people had an interest obviously," he says. "It wasn't a faddish thing to do. They did it because they meant it, because they had a very understanding commitment to do it."

Deaconess Magstadt says she feels a major need of most churches is "getting more kids interested in becoming a part of the church." She hopes, too, that churches will become involved throughout their communities, "and not just within the parish."

Because He Wants To

When a man goes to the trouble of constructing a special greenhouse, including an unusual heating system and employing special fertilizers, just to grow a small crop of bananas in the middle of Kansas, he has got to have a reason.

Gus Lind, who is retired from the Army Corps of Engineers, does.

"I do love bananas," he said, "but that's not why I raise them. I do it to prove I can do something people said was impossible to do — namely, raise bananas in Kansas."

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — In "As You Like It," Shakespeare wrote in 1599, "These trees shall be my books."

In 1971, many large corporations are saying similar things in their annual reports, knowing that this is the way the consumer likes it. Pictures of trees, leaves, flowers, grass, sky and water make some reports resemble nature books.

And subtly placed in these idyllic scenes is the American family, the consumer. What is more wholesome than a healthy, happy family at ease or at play in nature's backyard? And what is dearer to a family than the preservation of that life?

And so what is more important to a company making consumer products?

The American Can Co. annual report, being mailed this week, is a prime illustration of the efforts being made to identify corporate and consumer goals as the same, especially as they related to environment.

The front cover: All green with towering branches, except for a family group in the grass. Pages one and two: Filled with a closeup of a family beneath the spreading arms of a tree, through whose leaves glows a cerulean sky. Page three: Grandmother, daughter and infant.

The next six pictures, all at least full-page size, illustrate family members in various activities, such as studying, car washing, shaving. And then follows another big picture of the family in the backyard — under a tree.

Further on comes a full-page photo of William F. May, chairman and president, "on the grounds of our new corporate headquarters." He is there, to be sure, under a faint blue sky, his shoes hidden in lush, ankle-deep grass.

Flip the page and there is corporate headquarters again, in the shade of middle of the photo, which is bordered by red leaves and green grass drenched in sunshine.

The color nearly disappears over the next few pages, which are concerned with financial data, but it resumes on the last page.

There, far in the background of a brilliant color photograph, is the Halsey, Ore., pulp and paper plant. The photo is two-thirds foreground, made up entirely of vigorous yellow flow-

Like the mountain climber who tackles the peak no one ever scaled, or the adventurer who tries to sail the Atlantic in a rowboat, the Kansas banana grower was attracted to a cause which seemed hopeless.

This adventurer probably won't have to worry about any competition in his endeavor, but that really is not the point. Another man has done something which everyone surely thought was not possible.

Even if his reward was nothing more than a bunch of very expensive bananas.

According To Boyle

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — It is our memories that give depth and meaning to our lives.

Without them we would be like robots going endlessly through patterns of taught actions that held for us no purpose. Existence would become merely mindless repetition.

But memories give a framework to living. They become the guideposts that enable us to go back and revisit the past — that past which inexorably and inescapably led us to the transient and uneasy today through which we are being hurried.

You have a refreshing store of memories yourself if you can look back and remember when —

The ice skates that grandpa used when young had wooden runners.

Parents of large families counted their children after a Gypsy caravan passed through town just to be sure none had been stolen.

Attempts were made to frighten kids into being good. They were told that if they were bad and the devil didn't get them, the bogeyman would.

You could tell whether a household was religious by whether the family Bible had dust on it.

Few women went to a hospital just to have a baby. After all, hospitals were for people who were sick.

A born leader as a kid who could spit farther and play marbles better than any other member of his gang.

Any woman who dyed her hair was talk of the neighborhood. So was any woman who cared so little about her reputation that she would permit herself to be seen smoking a cigarette in public.

You could get a wonderful baby sitter for 25 cents an evening and pitcherful of lemonade.

After cash registers replaced the old-fashioned cash drawers, it became more difficult for grocery clerks to buy out the store they worked in.

People automatically voted for any bond issue to build a new school.

A slouch was any lad over 12 that didn't have enough gumption to figure out a way to earn his own spending money.

The only coin machines were those that would weigh you or give you a ball of gum for a penny.

The sternest test of a real gentleman was whether he would go up to a booth at a church social and give $1 to charity for the dubious pleasure of kissing a homely girl.

In most small towns it was hard to think up any reason for staying up until midnight except on Saturday night and Halloween.

No matter how ethical and upright he might be in all his other dealings, no man could be utterly trusted in a deal involving the swapping or buying and selling of a horse.

A juvenile delinquent was a boy caught boldly smoking a cornsilk cigarette in the schoolyard instead of behind the barn.

If a man couldn't afford to pay cash for what he wanted, he usually decided he couldn't afford it at all.

Folks in a small town thought sure it was on the way to becoming a metropolis when the business section became larger than the cemetery.

The generation gap between parents and children was bridged by the loving presence and steady influence of a grandfather or grandmother living in the home.

Those were the days — remember?

In 1883 New Hampshire pronounced the woodchuck "distasteful of any interesting qualities" and slapped a 10-cent bounty on him.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

CONFESSES E. B. White, whose "Charlotte's Web" is one of the finest books ever authored by an American: "I sometimes doubt that a writer should refine or improve his work room by so much as a dictionary. One thing leads to another and the first thing you know, he has a stuffed chair and is fast asleep in it."

An old New York stay-up was sighing the other day for the good old, wide-open prohibition days when joints like the Club Durant flourished in Manhattan. The Durant was on Fifty-third Street, just off Sixth, and featured the antics of the inimitable Jimmy Schnozzola Durante, aided and abetted by his two ubiquitous side-kicks, Lou Clayton and Eddie Jackson.

One of the highlights of the show was frequently the "Shipwrecked" skit, with Jimmy going mad with thirst as the trio drifted on an imaginary raft on an imaginary ocean under an imaginary burning sun. "Dis suspense is deafening," Jimmy would groan, and then suddenly cry, "Land! Land! We're saved." "The sun is driving you nuts," Jackson would tell him gently. "That is nought but the horizon you see." "Den pull for it," Durante would conclude. "It's better than nothing."

Undisputed winner of the year's prize for brazen effrontery goes by default to the English spinster who blamed the sixth baby on a watercress sandwich she ate at a picnic.

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

My son, aged 14, insists that the special soaps he and his friends use for acne are better than a mid, ordinary soap and a washcloth. I think his soap is much too strong for his face. Who is right?

Mrs. M. S. P., Ohio
Dear Mrs. P.: There is a factor here that is much more important than the particular soap your son uses. The problem of acne is a personal one and, as you know, associated with embarrassment and injury to a teenager's vanity.

Rather than establish a point of conflict, I think your son needs additional understanding and moral support during this difficult growing up period. I would not make an issue of the kind of soap he uses. This would only divert and alter the really important aspect of the relationship that exists between you. Let him use his kind of soap, even if it only gives him the satisfaction of doing what his friends are doing for their acne.

Will you give me some advice on the long-distance use of nose sprays?

Mrs. M. M., Pa.
Dear Mrs. M.: I assume by "long-distance" you mean the use of nasal sprays for a long period of time. I have repeatedly told my readers that nasal sprays contain some form of adrenalin or epinephrine. These are often combined with cortisone. Their function is to relieve the congestion in the nose and give a better airway for breathing.

Unfortunately, people who have some allergic tendency, and many who do not, develop dependence on these "comforting" drugs. Then what happens is this: more drops are necessary at more frequent intervals to give relief from nasal congestion. Now the real dependence on the drug begins, and soon it becomes exceedingly difficult to break the habit.

The lining of the nose has thousands of tiny hairs that propel mucus to the front and back of the nose. When nasal sprays are used for a long period of time, these tiny hairs actually become paralyzed and cease to function.

You can therefore see the potential hazards of using any nose drops for more than a few days. The habit must be discontinued if the passageway in the nose is to return to normal. You'll find it a lot easier, incidentally, to avoid nasal sprays than to break a fixed habit.

It is a lot easier to develop a hobby when you are young than when you are retired.

An Indecisive Soviet

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN
Richard Nixon began his term of office hoping that he could turn the Era of Confrontation with the Soviet Union into an Era of Negotiation. Chancellor Willy Brandt of West Germany, following the same lure, signed a no-violence treaty with the Soviets in Moscow and let it be known that the Oder-Neisse Line would be permanently accepted as Communist Poland's western border. Meanwhile the SALT talks on possible nuclear arms limitation were held, and adjourned, and held again.

It's been like pursuing the ignis fatuus, the false light over the marshes, to deal with Communist "negotiators." One reason is that the Soviets don't care to give up any quid to get a quo. A deeper reason is that nothing is settled behind the Iron Curtain.

Just when Brandt is getting ready to regularize relations with Poland, the incumbent Polish regime, seemingly so well controlled under Gomulka, begins to shake and totter. This time it isn't an intellectuals' "revolution," such as put Wladyslaw Gomulka in power in 1956; it is a yo-heave-ho from the industrial proletariat which simply refused to have its standard of living, such as it is, lowered to accommodate the Warsaw planners' idea of fair shares for everybody.

Moscow, fearful of outraging the western Communist parties as they had been outraged by the 1968 tank incursion into Czechoslovakia, had to accept a new regime in Poland. But whose regime is it? No doubt the new (Edward) Gierek government in Warsaw will respect Moscow's wishes, but does it represent anything Brandt can deal with on terms pleasing to all parties?

The possibility of negotiating with the outside world is, at a standstill in the Soviet and satellite country world because everybody is waiting for the outcome of the twenty-fourth Party Congress, set for March 30. As one of the Radio Liberty Kremlinologists, Albert Boiter, says, the present Soviet leadership has all the stigma of a "lame-duck" government.

It has backed and filled on the "Jewish question," now letting the KGB, the secret police, railroad the Leningrad Jewish "hijackers," and now giving in to some of the more recalcitrant Jewish protesters by letting them emigrate to Israel. It has driven the new liberals of the "Prague Spring" — Ota Sik and Eduard Goldstuecker — out of Czechoslovakia, and it has continued to send intellectual dissenters such as the mathematician Pimenov and the "futurist" writer Amalryk to Soviet work camps and insane asylums.

On the other hand, it has not dared put a physical hand on Lunatic Alexander Solzhenitsyn, who displeased the Kremlin hierarchy by accepting the Nobel Prize for literature; and it has desisted from taking action against the physicist Andrei Sakharov for combining with Solzhenitsyn and other intellectuals to form a Human Rights Committee dedicated to protecting the civil rights of protesters.

As March 30 approaches, the colorless and physically ailing Leonid Brezhnev seems to have been gathering the strength into his hands to dominate the Party Congress. The boss of the Leningrad party, Vasiliy Tostkov, who triggered the hijacking trial of the Leningrad Jews, is now cooling his heels in Peking, as Ambassador to Communist China.

Meanwhile, as Kremlinologist Christian Duevel points out, there has been considerable gerrymandering of the districts, or oblasts, in Central Asia in a way that promises to give Brezhnev more support at the Party Congress deliberations. In Kazakhstan, a new oblast, "Turgai," has been carved out of the home territory of two proteges of Soviet President Nikolai Podgorny. Podgorny is supposedly an ally of Alexander Shelepin, chief Politburo rival of Brezhnev. Shelepin, who once headed the KGB, still wields considerable power among his old secret police friends. The KGB, however, has annoyed one Politburo faction for its role in bringing the Leningrad Jews to trial and for letting the Khrushchev memoirs slip out.

Even if Brezhnev holds on after March 30, as now seems likely, he will be faced with staggering choices. After the Soviet tank "conquest" of Czechoslovakia he proclaimed the Brezhnev doctrine, which arrogates to Moscow the right of a veto over satellite decisions. Would he dare apply the doctrine to a seething Poland? Would he dare go to war in the Middle East with the Poles, the Czechs, and the Rumanians in a sullen mood? The best bet is that we shall have an indecisive Soviet for a long time, and you can't very well have fruitful negotiations with people who don't know their own minds.

Dear Abby:

Is She Too Hard On Stepson?

DEAR ABBY: I am 25, work 40 hours a week, have been married five years and have a stepson who is now 10.

I have taught this child neat manners, respect for his elders and the property of others. If he misbehaves, he is punished either by spanking, or I take his bike away. He is made to clean up his plate before getting dessert, and he's not allowed a lot of junk candy between meals. He is also taught not to interrupt others while they are talking.

I have no children of my own and don't want any.

I am told by friends and relatives that I am too hard on the boy, and I am accused of not liking children because I don't want any more. Am I wrong raising him the way I am, and for not wanting any more?

DEAR WONDERING: You are raising a neat, respectful, courteous, responsible citizen, which is to your credit, and from your letter, I don't think you are "too hard" on the boy. But if you "love" him, you failed to mention it in your letter. (Children need to feel loved.)

You are not "wrong" for not wanting more children but because you obviously advertised that fact, I can understand why your friends and relatives would accuse you of "not liking" children. (Do you?)

DEAR ABBY: Can you tell me exactly how a girl is supposed to kiss a boy? I have heard that it just comes naturally, but in case it doesn't, can you give me some directions? Should you quit breathing? I know you aren't supposed to make a "smack" sound when you are kissing a relative, isn't it? Another question: Are you supposed to move your head? Or do you move your lips?

2nd Deck Set For Golden Gate Bridge

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Directors of the Golden Gate Bridge have approved installing a second deck on the majestic span, but it won't alter the familiar appearance of the 34-year-old suspension structure.

The second deck is part of a $331 million long-range transit plan approved unanimously Thursday to relieve traffic congestion between San Francisco and Marin County suburbs.

But there are several hurdles to be cleared before the plan becomes reality.

It must be approved by the California Legislature and federal funds would be needed to help local governments, who would have to raise a portion of the cost.

The transit plan is keyed around using a speedy bus system on the second deck, to be installed in an already boxed-in framework beneath the present roadway.

The second deck would cost an estimated $66.5 million, with access and egress through tunnels that boost over-all cost of the busway to $201 million.

All 16 bridge directors at Thursday's meeting favored the plan, which has expansion of existing bus and ferry boat service as its initial steps. Two were absent.

When the Golden Gate Bridge opened in May 1937 it had a daily traffic average of 3,000 vehicles compared with 100,000 a day now.

The plan evolved after studies and public hearings on some 25 proposals. It is designed to meet public transportation requirements between San Francisco and the North Coast counties through 2015.

Bridge engineer Robert Shields said the lower-decking with its subway approaches for bus traffic could be completed in five years.

Secretarial Institute Set In Columbus

Columbus Chapter of The National Secretaries Assn. (International) will sponsor the 20th Annual Ohio Secretarial Institute on Tuesday, March 30, at Veterans Memorial Building, 300 W. Broad St., Columbus. Registration begins at 1 p.m.

The theme, "Professionalism And You" will be highlighted by five workshops which will be presented in two sessions, the first beginning at 2 p.m. and the second at 3:30. The workshops being offered are: human relations, communication, professionalism — NSA, the dual role, and just a secretary?

Following the workshops will be a style show, "Good Clothes Open All Doors" and fashions will be presented by Madisons of Columbus. The evening program will be highlighted by Theodore Rodosovich who will speak on "Body Language." Mr. Rodosovich is an associate of C-M Associates of Northridge, Calif., a management consultant firm, specializing in negotiations. The company specializes in programs in kinesics — the study of communication through body movement. The basic meaning of non-verbal communication are applicable in all situations and the secretary who understands these meanings can be invaluable to her boss.

Further information and registration forms can be obtained by contacting Miss June West, CPS president Roundtown Chapter, at P. O. Box 52 Williamsport, 43164.

Views on Television

By CYNTHIA LOWERY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "Travis Logan, D.A." a two-hour filmed feature on CBS Thursday night, may have been a pilot for a series starring Vic Morrow but it was also an especially good suspense story of an almost perfect crime.

The movie-made-for-TV began with the murder. A man with a shotgun burst into an apartment, killed his best friend and wounded his own wife. Police found an anonymous letter at his home telling him that his wife was carrying on.

The husband calmly denied he had done it, and since there was no doubt that he had, the district attorney agreed to a psychiatric examination.

Bit by bit, from tiny clues—the size of the pellets in the shotgun shell—the district attorney became convinced that it was no crime of passion by a temporarily crazed man but a cold-blooded, premeditated killing with money as the motive.

Hal Holbrook was superb as the man who almost got away with murder and Brenda Vaccaro was excellent as his wife and accomplice. Morrow, in the title role, created a tense, humorless and rather remote character.

A courtroom windup was on the hackneyed side, but the two-hour drama was several cuts above the usual TV suspense tale.

CBS will present "60 Minutes" as a weekly news show on Sundays 6 to 7 p.m. EST next season, and its "CBS Reports" will become a monthly, two-hour documentary filling a Thursday evening movie spot.

The moves are breaks for viewers who finally will be able to watch over NBC's and CBS's mid-evening news shows. NBC will move its two-hour First Tuesday's to Friday next season. Currently the weekly CBS "60 minutes" conflicts with the monthly NBC program.

ABC's most popular lineup of programs—its Tuesday night schedule—will return intact next season now that the Federal Communications Commission has granted its request for 3½ hours of network broadcasting time that night.

ABC will meet the FCC's new three-hour nightly limit to the networks by returning an extra half hour to local stations on some other night. The program sequence ABC seeks to preserve are "Mod Squad," "Movie of the Week" and "Marcus Welby, M.D."

NBC recently won permission for the same sort of deal in connection with its popular Sunday night schedule.

Joe Frazier and Muhammad Ali will talk about that fight on ABC's "Wide World of Sports" Saturday, 5 to 6:30 p.m. EST.

Quilting has come a long way since grandma was a girl. Now, synthetics have taken over the quilting picture. Filling material of polyester fibers is exceptionally springy, lightweight and dust-free, completely washable and quick drying.

Muskie Pushes Positive Image

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, seeking to dispel the idea that he is vague on presidential campaign issues, is sending Democratic delegates and opinion-makers copies of a speech declaring the United States must withdraw from South Vietnam by this year's end.

About 9,000 copies of that Vietnam policy address will be mailed by the Maine Democrat's political headquarters, command post for a presidential campaign Muskie has not yet formally entered.

In the speech delivered Feb. 23 at the University of Pennsylvania, Muskie announced his support for legislation setting Dec. 31, 1971, as the deadline for complete withdrawal of American troops from South Vietnam.

Late-Winter Storm Hits In Northeast

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A late-winter snow whitened the region from Ohio to northern New England today and rain or snow also dampened a large part of the Pacific Northwest.

Cold weather lingered over the northern Great Lakes, but unseasonable mildness prevailed in most other sections of the country outside snow-laden areas of the Northeast.

Four inches of snow fell on northern New England during the night. One-inch coatings were common from Ohio northeastward.

A storm off the Northwest coast dumped rain over a wide area from Washington through central California. High winds accompanied the rain which turned to snow inland.

Showers and thunderstorms broke out late Thursday in the springlike warmth dominating the Gulf Coast States. Marble-size hail pelted Greenwood, Miss., during one storm.

When Tom retired, it seemed as if his dreams had come true. For years he and Grace had been planning. There would be that little pink house in Florida and time to do all the things they wanted. They could keep in touch with their friends back home, and there would be occasional visits back and forth.

What they hadn't realized was how much they would miss their church. It had been such a part of their life! Now it seemed that no other church could fill the gap. In fact, they didn't go to another church their first few weeks in Florida.

But finally one Sunday they went to the little church they had been passing each day on the way to the golf course. True, it wasn't like the church back home—outwardly. But, when you got down to essentials, it was the same.

If you have moved to another community, find a new church home. Regardless of its appearance, remember that it is God's House and in it you will be welcome.

Your Horoscope

By TERRY HUSTON and DEBBIE SCHNEIDER

Time: March 12 through 18. Place: the stars. What's in store for you? Read on and see!

Aries — Don't make any new commitments; people in high places have been expecting too much of you.

Taurus — Be wary of being drawn into a dangerous scheme or situation. It may be costly and a threat to prestige. High ideals must remain.

Gemini — Make certain a thing is needed before spending money on it. It's smart to keep up with the trends.

Cancer — The home atmosphere will be tense, but if you heed your instincts, all tension will cease.

Leo — Put your talents to work at home. Impulses should be kept in tight rein, for they can get you into hot water.

Virgo — Be careful of what you say, for it seems as if others are just waiting to take issue with you. Arguments could take nasty turns.

Libra — Remain closer to home and away from crowded places. Reading is fine entertainment.

Scorpio — Stay away from people connected with unpleasant experiences. Guard against rashness toward evening.

Sagittarius — It is wise to turn evasive.

Capricorn — Leave something to faith, pass up "bargains," and you'll receive a check or something else of value.

Aquarius — Watch out for strangers who are glib of tongue. Someone near and dear will provide incentive.

Pisces — A crisis is brewing. You need people around you who are warm and cheerful. You could lose out if you delay too long.

Seniors Will Present 1936 Comedy Play

By MARY K. LUCAS and DORINDA BELLAMY

The Senior Class proudly presents a classic American comedy of the 30's, "You Can't Take It With You" by Moss Hart and George S. Kauffman.

A perennial favorite of high schools and American audiences in general, the play was first produced in 1936 in New York where it was an immediate success and has been ever since in countless performances.

The 30's are far removed from some of us, a historic period, and just yesterday to others. The Hart and Kauffman play portrays some of the pain of the decade in a very laughable even farcical way — theorizing that man must make the best of any situation and the best way of doing this is to do your own thing.

The Sycamore family is a seemingly absurd one living in a normal world; but viewers of the play must not be too quick to label the family as "eccentric," a more logical step would be to look at one's self!

The cast will be announced in the near future.

Practice Starts For Cheerleaders

By BETH JONES

Smile! That is one of the fundamentals when trying out for cheerleader.

Cheerleading practice has started for those girls interested in trying out for the 1971-72 season. First practice was held Monday. Successive practices will continue until Mar. 22, when the new Varsity and Reserve squads will be chosen.

To be eligible for cheerleader, a girl must have several qualifications. First, she must have at least 2.0 grade average for the six weeks preceding tryouts. She must learn the cheer taught to all girls trying out, and make up a cheer of her own. She should know how to execute the three required jumps gracefully. If she is trying out for the Varsity squad, she must be prepared to go off the "mini-tramp" if it is asked of her.

School Plans First Variety Show At CHS

With a hop, a song, a twirl, the variety show will be held Monday as a product of Student Council and GAA.

Tryouts were held for the entire school for a wide variety in talent. A panel of judges viewed the auditions and selected the following acts:

Don Barton will perform in a gun twirling routine; the majorettes in a dance to "Foul Play;" Daybreak will present the song, "Love Story;" Denise Chandler and Sherry Bumgarner, a song and dance routine to "Side by Side."

A yo-yo act is the talent of Dave Lingo. Bill Hulse and Steve Smith will present a skit as news reporters; the Strawberries and Wine will sing; "What Is Youth" will be the question raised in a melody by Karen Reid and Sandy Resler and Kim Graham and Lissa Ruhl will dance to "War."

Songs will be performed by the Temptations, "US" and Debbie Miller. Del Compton, Steve Brink and Robby Gans will present their talent, Paranoid. A classical arrangement for a familiar melody will be performed by Mark Lackey, Dave Winner and Gary Scherer; Carla Leigh will perform a dance routine and Debbie Miller and Susan Huskey a short skit.

The Variety Show will be a new experience to audience and performers alike at CHS.

Consumers shop more carefully today. Here's why they buy Fords.

Ford LTD, quiet and strong, is the luxury car without the luxury car price.

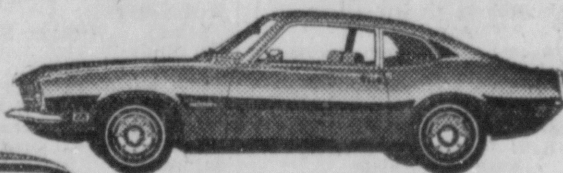

Ford LTD is the car that can match the luxury of cars costing hundreds of dollars more. And LTD's quiet ride is the standard that those same more expensive cars have to match themselves. That quiet strength is one reason for consumers choosing LTD over all other luxury cars in its class.

Torino is sized and priced right in the middle. Room for six, small car handling.

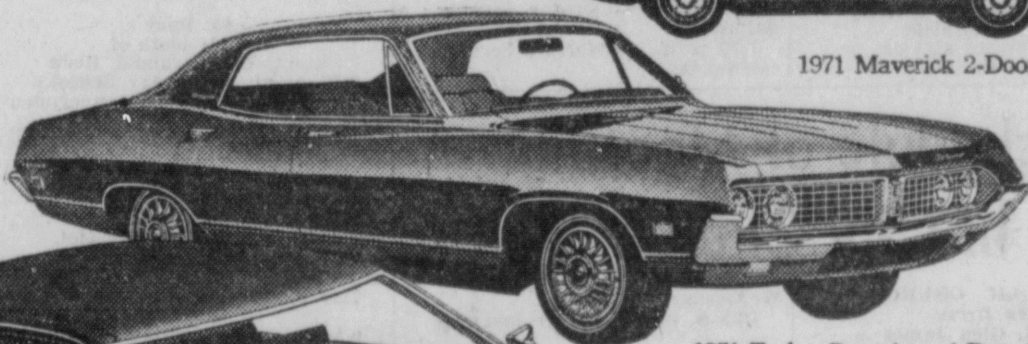

Consumers know the mid-size Torino gives them the roominess of a big car plus the easy handling of a small car. For a price that's right in the middle. As a result, Torino has become the most popular 4-door in its class. Your Ford Dealer has thirteen other models to choose from.

Maverick, the simple compact car, offers 2 doors or 4; 6 or V-8 power.

Take Maverick. Consumers know that the simple machine is simple to own and simple to run. And they learned recently that a leading independent survey found Maverick has the best frequency of repair record of any American car. That might explain why it's America's best-selling compact.

BUILD THIS HOME

... spend your spare time making money.

Here's how: Select Jim Walter to be your builder. Then you can join right in... actually take a part in doing some of the construction yourself. Not on the outside... but the inside finishing work... the slower, costlier part of building your new home. You can actually spend your spare time making money by not having to pay the high cost of labor to finish the part you can do yourself. And it doesn't matter how much or how little. The more you can do, the more money you'll save. Just tell Jim Walter where to stop, then you take over. We'll even furnish the materials you'll use and include their cost in your mortgage.

Sketch Club Once Popular

By PATTI CRAIG

Sketch Club was organized by a few pupils interested in creative art under the leadership of Mrs. Brunelle Downing in 1936.

Membership in the club was open to any student in high school who was genuinely interested in art. Work was done in water colors, pencil, clay and charcoal.

The purpose of the club was to develop the artistic abilities of its members who were always looking for a new talent.

The club met each week while members of the faculty and student body posed for them. Products of these efforts are often displayed on the art bulletin board in the lower corridor.

The Sketch Club had as its official emblem — a small palette, silver pin.

During the years from 1946-1949 the club was discontinued for some unknown reason.

Mrs. Gary Lee Schroeder took over as advisor in 1953. At this time 1/2 credit was awarded to the members who successfully completed the "course-club."

The last year the Sketch Club was recorded in the Circle was 1953. It is not known why the club was stopped or when; although, it was very active among the students. There is a possibility that the Sketch Club was converted into an art class.

Kings and queens and their progeny have figured prominently in children's literature. Perhaps this concern for royalty is a heritage from the Brothers Grimm. "Household Stories" translated by Lucy Crane and illustrated by her brother Walter is highly populated by persons of high birth. "The Goose Girl" was a princess whose maid-in-waiting usurped her position. In "The Golden Bird" a king's youngest son accomplished what his older brothers could not do, and won for himself a princess. Who does not love the "Sleeping Beauty" and her handsome prince?

Sally Patrick Johnson collected the stories for "The Princesses". Queens, she says are either wicked stepmothers or quaint housekeepers. Princes are always off slaying dragons. Kings are distracted, forever worrying about a successor to the throne. But princesses symbolize glamour and excitement. They can be pampered, kidnapped, rescued, and won. Beni Montresor created engaging illustrations which add a great deal to the appeal of the book.

Many writers have told about King Arthur. The Gustaf Tenggren volume is outstanding because of his stylized art work. Emma Gelders Sterne and Barbara Lindsay wrote the story for this one. "Page Boy for King Arthur" by Eugenia Stone conveys a good deal of historical knowledge.

Ohio's James Thurber won a Caldecott award for "Many Moons", his whimsical tale of the princess who really had everything. And A. A. Milne, in another country and another generation, tickled children and grown-ups alike with his poetry about "The King's Breakfast" and "If I Were King."

Quite different from most fairy tales is Antoine de Saint-Exupery's "The Little Prince." He met this small fellow when he made a forced landing in the Sahara. With a sweet solemnity, the little prince became his desert companion while he made repairs to his airplane. Some forty water-colors by the author add to the charm of this unforgettable book.

Priesthood Workshop Slated In Toledo

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — John Cardinal Dearden of Detroit, bishops, other religious representatives and lay people of 11 Roman Catholic and Maronite and Byzantine dioceses in Michigan and Ohio meet here this weekend for a workshop on the priesthood.

The regional meeting is one of 11 being held around the country to explore the role of priests in relation to social and cultural changes.

Saxbe Talks In Cleveland On Pollution

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The pollution problem would remain even if industry could "clean itself up" in five years through government regulation, according to U.S. Sen. William B. Saxbe, R-Ohio.

Saxbe told the Associated Industries here Thursday major pollution can be blamed on untreated sewage that taxpayers refuse to clean up and said "they (the taxpayers) are going to have to tax themselves to solve the problem."

He said the nation was on an ecology kick and that industry has been pictured unfairly by what he called "ecology fad-dists".

The senator said he was not familiar with the proposed Davis-Besse nuclear power station in Port Clinton, but that he favored such plants that are similar to one outside Washington.

DDT, which many ecologists consider one of the most widespread pollutants, should be controlled, added Saxbe, because scientists fear it will cause the extinction of many species of birds.

But he said DDT was needed to protect millions of persons from malaria and other diseases.

Saxbe said he favored the development of the supersonic transport plane, and said he did not believe stories that the plane "would melt the polar ice cap and cause cancer."

Ohio Welfare Costs Still Rising

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The costs of welfare keep climbing with no letup in sight.

In 1945, there were 11,000 Ohioans on welfare. Today the figure is around 500,000.

Welfare in the current two-year period, ending June 30, will cost Ohio taxpayers $853 million. Former Gov. James A. Rhodes predicted it would jump to $1.1 billion in the next two years.

Howard Collier, finance director under Rhodes, projected that in 1973 welfare would surpass education as the top cost item in the state budget.

Collier said education costs in 1973 would be around $530 million, while welfare would be around $572 million.

Gov. John J. Gilligan has pledged not to let that happen. His answer, apparently will be to boost funds for education if he can get a comprehensive tax package through the General Assembly.

But welfare costs, it is expected, will keep rising. Even with more money for education, future governors may still see it surpass education in cost if the trend continues.

Nobody has come up with a way to stop it.

The Rev. Alvin Duane Smith, chaplain of Republican-dominated House of Representatives, took notice of the tax proposals by Democratic Gov. John J. Gilligan during his opening prayer Thursday.

He asked God to give his blessings to the legislators and to give them a restful weekend, then added:

"We have a hunch next week may be more taxing than the past week have been. Amen."

Gilligan is to outline his tax package Monday night.

Legislative sessions never seem longer than at the beginning, one Republican House member reports.

It is then, he said, that committee hearings drone on endlessly over minor legislation, while the major bills go unheard.

Then, at the end of the session, major bills fly through committee and out to the floor for a vote without the intensive consideration they merit, he said.

OHIO CASH GRAIN
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Dept. of Agri. cash grain prices: No 2 red wheat unchanged to 1 lower, 1.56 - 1.60, mostly 1.56-1.58; No 2 yellow corn unchanged to 1 lower, 1.38 - 1.43, mostly 1.38 - 1.40; No 2 oats mostly unchanged, 71-90, mostly 80-85; soybeans mostly 1 to 2 lower, 2.90 - 2.98, mostly 2.91-2.96.

"Some people would be astounded to see the way the legislative process really works around here at the end of the assembly term," he added.

State Senators until Thursday had not held a single roll call vote on the passage of legislation and the lack of practice took its toll on Republican Sen. Stanley Aronoff of Cincinnati.

Aronoff, returning from a telephone call to the Senate floor for the vote, was so taken aback by the opportunity that he voted "here", instead of "yes", on the measure.

The Senate President, Lt. Gov. John Brown, called the Cincinnati Republican back again at the end of the roll call to record a proper vote.

But another Republican, amused by the incident, said he preferred to think the bill passed by a vote of 29 "yeas" and one "here."

Gypsy Rose Lee Goods Auctioned

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Gypsy Rose Lee's 1956 Rolls-Royce sold for $8,250.

Former child star Jane Withers bought the famed stripper's ornate toilet cover for $160, explaining, "I love the unusual."

Looking on at the auction of the late burlesque queen's Victorian furniture and other possessions Wednesday night was a young man in leather slacks and jacket who said, "It's very depressing."

Erik Preminger, 26, of New York, blue-eyed with collar-length brown hair, is Miss Lee's son. Until Wednesday he was known as Erik Kirkland. Alexander Kirkland was Miss Lee's husband when Erik was born.

In New York Surrogate's Court Wednesday he was formally adopted by movie producer-director Otto Preminger who recently disclosed he is Erik's father.

Erik, who flew here for the auction, said, "I realized I didn't want to come." The sale of his mother's effects was all the more depressing, he said, "because I was so happy about the adoption."

Erik said Gypsy told him Preminger was his father when he was 17 but that she didn't want the relationship known during her lifetime.

The stripper, author, actress and television personality died of cancer last April at 56.

The board will hold its session in the conference room of the Ohio Department of Health at 450 E. Town St.

College Basketball Playoffs Start

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Twenty-five into one will go, as the nation's top teams begin the climb toward the national title Saturday with the start of the NCAA basketball playoffs.

When it's over March 27, one of the 15 league champions and 10 at-large entries will be crowned king of the colleges.

Four regional playoffs, including 18 of the teams, get rolling Saturday with the seven remaining entries on call for the second round March 18 after first-round byes.

In East regional openers, it's Ivy League champion Penn against Duquesne at Morgantown, W.Va.; Villanova vs. Middle Atlantic Conference champ St. Joseph's, Pa., at University Park, Pa., and Southern Conference titlist Furman playing Fordham in New York.

The first-round games in the Midwest include Jacksonville against Western Kentucky, the Ohio Valley winner, and Miami of Ohio, the Mid-American Conference champ, matched against Marquette, in a doubleheader at South Bend, Ind.

Texas Christian, winner of the Southwest Conference, hosts Notre Dame in one of the Midwest games at Houston, Tex., with Houston and New Mexico State in the other.

Brigham Young, king of the Western Athletic Conference, takes on Utah State and Big Sky titlist Weber State meets Long Beach State in a doubleheader at Logan, Utah, in the Western regionals.

SD To Open Barn Area

The barn area at Scioto Downs will be open for horses on March 15th, according to a statement today by Charles D. Hill, president of the suburban Columbus harness oval.

With the May 21st opening of the 1971 racing season at Scioto Downs less than ten weeks away, horsemen will have the opportunity to round out their winter training schedules over Scioto's all-weather five eighths mile track.

Mr. Hill stated that severe weather conditions this past winter have put trainers way behind in training schedules at their various county fairground tracks around the state. "We hope that the earlier opening date for training at Scioto Downs will get these horses back on schedule. We want the horses ready for all-out competition by post time on May 21st," Hill concluded.

In addition to the main five eighths of a mile track, Scioto Downs has a three eighths of a mile jogging track located in the barn area.

NCAA Regional Action Continues

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (AP) — Evansville defeated Ashland of Ohio 82-74 Thursday night to advance to the championship game against Central Michigan in the NCAA Great Lakes regional basketball tournament.

Central Michigan, leading by 14 points with 2½ minutes to go, held off an Augustana rally for a 63-59 victory in the first game.

Evansville had a 17-point lead with about five minutes left but Ashland cut it to three at 75-72. Rick Coffey hit a layup with half a minute left to ice it for the Aces. He led all scorers with 24 points. John Wellemeyer had 21 for Evansville.

Gary Ferguson, 6-foot-7 center, topped Ashland with 18.

What a great job Coach Brent Bell and his wrestling squad have done this season!

First, Tom Frericks, Mark Davey, Bill Fowler, Doug Good, Doyle Kiser, Dave Webb and Jeff Harr tore up the South Central Ohio League meet and brought seven division championships back to Roundtown.

Now, Frericks, Davey, Fowler, Kiser and Webb are going into the state meet and will certainly give a good account of themselves against the best competition the state can throw at them. Don't be surprised if some state titles make their way into the trophy cases at Circleville High School.

These fine young athletes have worked hard to get where they are and will not be satisfied until they reach the pinnacle.

Wrestling is a sport where each man competes as an individual and is on his own once he hits the mat.

He may be on his own but never really alone attested to by the encouragement and moral support of his teammates. Anyone who has seen these Tiger grapplers compete will know what we mean.

They'll be in action Friday and Saturday at St. John Arena and deserve all the support we can give them. Hope to see you there.

Our little gem of information — The Cincinnati Red Stockings hold the longest winning streak in baseball. They won 92 games in a row (1869-70). In 1870, they showed a net profit of $1.39 from total gate receipts of $29,726.26.

Our "fearless" forecast — It'll be "juicy" pickings for Trevino in the Citrus Invitational.

Until next time, have a nice day — be a good sport.

Walton, Brewers Stop Giants, 7-5

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Danny Walton was one of the most surprised guys when, in his rookie year with the Milwaukee Brewers last season, he became the fans' No. 1 hero.

The paying customers started a Walton Fan Club and held their meetings in the left field stands, where they could get close to their hero and cheer him on. Walton responded with a great start but by the end of the season, he had faded to a rather routine .257 batting average.

Now the Walton Fan Club can get ready to reconvene. Danny's hot again.

Walton tagged his third home run of the spring Thursday, rocketing a three-run pinch hit shot in the ninth inning that moved the Brewers to a 7-5 comeback victory over the San Francisco Giants.

In other exhibition games, the Chicago White Sox blitzed Philadelphia 9-2, St. Louis downed Boston 7-4, Baltimore, clipped the Tokyo Giants 6-4, Oakland whipped California 6-1, Cleveland shut out the Lotte Orions 2-0, San Diego defeated the Chicago Cubs 11-7, Los Angeles nipped the New York Mets 5-4, Cincinnati nipped Minnesota 9-8, Kansas City tripped the New York Yankees 7-3, Detroit edged Houston 8-7 and Atlanta downed Pittsburgh 5-2.

The Brewers, now 6-1 in the Arizona Cactus League, trailed 5-3 going into the ninth inning against the Giants. But Bobby Pena doubled and a walk and an error scored one run. Then Walton batted for George Kopacz and smashed his winning shot.

Carlos May continued his red-hot hitting and led the White Sox past Philadelphia. May tagged four straight hits, driving in three runs and raising his spring average to .429. Chicago had six doubles in a 16-hit attack.

Lou Brock slammed a three-run homer in the eighth inning—his third game winning hit in six games this spring—as the Cardinals whipped Boston. Brock is now batting .437.

The Baltimore Orioles, champions of U.S. baseball, and the Tokyo Nippon Giants, Japanese champions, staged their own Little World Series with the Orioles coming out on top. Brooks Robinson homered for Baltimore and Sadaharu Oh, perennial Japanese home run king, drove in two of the Tokyo team's runs with looping singles in the first and ninth innings.

Rookie Mark Ballinger pitched five scoreless innings and Ray Lamb and Steve Dunne completed the shutout as Cleveland blanked the Lotte Orions, Japan's other touring team.

Reggie Jackson clubbed his third homer of the spring and Oakland whipped California on the combined three-hit pitching of Rollie Fingers, Bob Locker and Jim Roland. The game was played under the experimental three balls for a walk rule despite the protests of the Angels.

California's complaint over using the three balls experiment caused a heated telephone exchange between Charles O. Finley, owner of the A's and Dick Walsh, California's general manager.

San Diego bunched eight runs in the last two innings to defeat the Cubs. Larry Stahl had four hits for the Padres and Rafael Robles scored four runs. Ron Santo had four hits for the Cubs.

Jim Lefebvre's bases-loaded double in the ninth inning rallied Los Angeles past the New York Mets. Jerry Grote's ninth inning homer had given the Mets the lead.

Cincinnati won its first game after five losses, topping Minnesota with Johnny Bench's two-run double keying a five-run fourth inning. Harmon Killebrew's first inning double—his seventh straight spring hit—helped the Twins to an early lead.

The Twins got good news on another front when center fielder Cesar Tovar agreed to contract terms. That leaves only outfielder Tony Oliva and pitcher Bill Zell still unsigned.

Kansas City pushed four runs across in the 10th inning—two of them on Joe Keough's triple—to defeat the New York Yankees. Amos Otis had a two-run homer for the Royals.

A bases-loaded walk to Al Kaline forced home Detroit's winning run in the ninth as the Tigers edged Houston. Jim Northrup and Norm Cash crashed homers for Detroit.

Atlanta pushed across three unearned runs in the seventh inning and defeated Pittsburgh. Singles by Dusty Baker, Marty Perez and Van Kelly sparked the rally.

Full Senate Ready To Vote On Social Security Boost

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Democratic-engineered shortcut to a quick boost in Social Security benefits for 2.1 million citizens reached the Senate floor today, ready for passage.

By attaching the $5 billion provisions to a House-passed bill boosting the national debt limit, the Democratic strategist skipped past a White House plan and would allow recipients a 10 to 56 per cent benefit boost several months sooner than the administration proposal.

The original bill increases the debt limit to a record $430 billion, $35 billion over the present ceiling.

The amendment provides at least a 10 per cent across-the-board, increase for all Social Security recipients. At the same time, the current $64 minimum monthly payment to individuals goes up 56 per cent to an even $100 monthly.

The $100 minimum faces a doubtful fate, however, because of the opposition of House Ways and Means Committee Chairman Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark.

Mills will head the House conferees on the bill. He has indicated he will go along with a straight 10 per cent hike, raising the minimum to $70.40.

The average retired individual now gets $118 a month and a couple $198 under Social Security. The Senate provision would raise this to $136 and $223 respectively.

Social Security taxes also will be boosted. Effective next year, the taxable wage base goes from $7,800 to $9,000, which means an extra $62.40 each for the worker earning at least $9,000. His employer pays the same.

The increased payments, retroactive to Jan. 1, probably will not be reflected in the monthly checks until July 3 to allow for the Social Security Administration to make the changes.

Even so, the Democratic plan calls for the higher payments much sooner than under the procedure recommended by the administration this year.

The President asked that the increases be considered as part of an omnibus measure also including complex welfare reform provisions.

Democratic leaders decided to split off Social Security and deal with it separately after concluding it would take too long to work out a satisfactory revision of the welfare program.

Convict Tells Son In Letter, 'Stay Clean'

CINCINNATI (AP) — Louis Torok, a prolific writer, has urged his son to avoid following in his footsteps in one respect.

"Son, I don't want you to end up like me in prison," Torok said in a recent letter to his son. "But remember, if you break the law, any law, and get away with it, you may eventually end up like your father spending many years' behind bars. Don't risk it."

A copy of the letter was sent to the Cincinnati Enquirer which printed it.

Torok is serving concurrent sentences of 1-10 years in the Chillicothe Correctional Institute on two convictions of assault on a minor. He was sentenced in Lucas County in September of 1968.

"You may be just looking for a thrill to pass time," Torok continued in the letter. "But that thrill can cost you a lifetime of imprisonment. Please think about it. Do yourself and Mom a favor."

"Stay out of prison."

In a separate letter to the Enquirer, Torok said that he wanted his son to know "what an utter waste of human life imprisonment is."

The inmate said in the letter to his son that he started stealing things when he was just a youngster.

"Of course they didn't throw me in prison for what I did back as a child," he said. "Although it might have been better for me if they had."

From stealing candy bars, Torok said he started breaking into houses.

Torok urged his son not to waste any hate on him but to direct it against poverty, ignorance and prejudice.

Towns Get Waste Order

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Five towns were told by the Ohio Water Pollution Control Board Thursday to show cause why their requests for waste disposal permits should not be denied.

Cited for lack of progress were Chardon, Geneva-on-the-Lake, Uhrichsville, Centerburg and Cridersville.

The board also issued show cause orders for Bernard Industrial Park in Summit County and the Forest Hills Utility Co. owned by the developer of the Forest Hills subdivision of Heath, Licking County.

Of 107 permit applications considered by the board, 73 were approved outright. Seventeen were okayed after changes were made in permit specifications and some were held for further study.

Akron was asked to submit plans for an additional sewage treatment facility and an advanced treatment plant.

South Viets Abandon Laos Bases

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese troops in Laos pulled out of their positions closest to Seneone today and moved south-east toward the Vietnamese border, headquarters officers reported.

The officers said a regiment of infantrymen abandoned Fire Base Sofia, 2½ miles southeast of the key communications point 25 miles inside Laos, to avoid being trapped by North Vietnamese forces.

Sofia was the closest fixed base to Seneone set up by the South Vietnamese after they advanced to the devastated junction town on Route 9 last Saturday. No further advance westward has been reported, the Saigon troops have been sweeping for enemy forces and supply caches in the area and to the southeast along a front of about 25 miles.

Associated Press correspondent George Esper, reporting from South Vietnamese northern headquarters at Ham Nghi, said staff officers told him some of the Saigon troops moved six miles southeast of Sofia. This would put them 8½ miles from Seneone.

Esper said other troops moved eastward toward the Vietnamese border near the fire base called Lolo.

Seneone was a main transshipment point on the Ho Chi Minh trail network through southeast Laos, and at the start of the South Vietnamese drive Feb. 8 it was reported to be the first major target of the drive.

But the South Vietnamese said this week that they had not occupied Seneone because it was in a valley and therefore vulnerable to attack. Instead they sent reconnaissance units in and out of the deserted ruins all week while holding positions on the high ground.

Meanwhile, American helicopters returned in force to the skies over the panhandle as the weather improved. The U.S. Command said American choppers flew nearly 1,200 sorties in Laos after two days of heavy fog and low clouds. The weather had cut the daily traffic to 160 sorties or less.

The flights Thursday included about 500 gunship sorties, attacking enemy troops to support the South Vietnamese; 360 troop lifts; 350 supply flights and 40 to evacuate casualties.

With the renewal of helicopter activity, the U.S. Command announced the loss of five more of the aircraft on Thursday and a sixth last Saturday. One American was killed, seven were wounded and two are missing in the crashes.

Although the weather grounded the helicopters, America's above-the-weather B52 bombers kept up their attacks on the Ho Chi Minh trail network, and today South Vietnamese headquarters reported finding more hundreds of North Vietnamese killed by the big bombers.

Only sporadic contact was reported in the ground war in Laos. Lt. Col. Tran Van An, the South Vietnamese military spokesman in Saigon, told of three clashes Thursday, including two south of Seneone and one near the Vietnamese-Laotian border. He said 40 of the enemy were killed and nine government troops wounded.

Set Grand Jury In Gang Battle

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Special Cuyahoga County Grand Jury is scheduled to convene Monday to hear evidence against 47 Breed and 10 Hell's Angels motorcycle gang members charged with first-degree murder in the slaying of five men here Saturday night.

Cleveland homicide detectives, who are continuing to take statements from the 57, are reportedly considering the possibility of asking for a mass trial.

Fifty-one of the 57 were divided into four groups and placed in jails in Cuyahoga, Lake, Ashabula and Geauga counties. Six were in hospitals.

Set Sentencing In Cincy Death

CINCINNATI (AP) — Twenty-year-old Johnny Tarpley will be sentenced next Thursday on a first-degree manslaughter charge in the fatal kicking and beating of a Cincinnati man.

An all-white Hamilton County Common Pleas Court jury convicted Tarpley, a Negro from Cincinnati, Thursday in the death of Vito Milillo, 73, during a $43 robbery last July 18.

Tarpley had been charged with first-degree murder, and the jury deliberated nearly 20 hours before returning its verdict. One juror said that as late as Wednesday night, nine of the members favored a first-degree murder conviction and the other three were for the manslaughter conviction.

The manslaughter charge carries a 1-20 year prison sentence.

Ashville Girl Joins Cast Of Vaud-Villities

LINDA BISKER

An Ashville resident and statehouse secretary has added a new credit to her list — chorus girl.

Miss Linda Bisker has been selected as one of the new chorus members in the annual Vaud-Villities musical show opening Mar. 24 at the Veterans Memorial Auditorium in Columbus.

Linda, a secretary employed by the Ohio Legislative Service Committee in Columbus, was picked from a field of 85 candidates who auditioned for places in the Vaud-Villities cast. Thirty chosen were women.

Produced annually by the First Community Productions, a Columbus church group, the show has increased greatly since begun in 1942. There are 300 cast members in all, chosen from all walks of life, especially business and professional people.

THE grand event costs more than $45,000 each year to produce. All money over production costs are donated to area charities.

Included in the 17,000 persons who view the performance annually, many are specially invited guests from 75 different organizations such as Big Brothers, Franklin County Home, Franklin Village, the blind, crippled and infirmed patients of private and public institutions.

Linda has attended past productions of the Vaud-Villities with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Preston Bisker and brother. They live at Route 2, Ashville.

Song and music is what interests the twenty-year-old Vaud-Villite. Before graduating from Teays Valley High in 1969, she took part in class plays and musical activities. She had one year of voice lessons at Capital University following high school.

Vaud-Villities will be presented through Saturday, Mar. 27 with performances 8:15 p.m. nightly. Tickets are on sale at the Central Ticket Office in Columbus and Sears stores.

'1984' Will Be Staged At LHS

"1984", George Orwell's dramatic prediction of life in the future, has been selected as Laurelville High School's spring play.

The stage adaptation of the strange form of life under Big Brother's rule and ever watchful eye will be presented in a single performance Apr. 23 at 8 p.m. in the school gymnasium.

Winston and Julia will be portrayed by LHS students Roger Valentine and Lynn Hankinson. Dan Cook will enact the part of O'Brien. As the ever-present, ever-vocal loudspeaker will be Rick Rutter.

Other members of the cast are Debbie Beglin as Parsons; Tom Baum, Syme; Debbie Kidwell, landlady; Sarah Newland, Gladys; Wes Blum, Martin and Nancy Fogler, coffee vender.

The play is under the direction of G. Edward Coey and student assistant Darcy Spencer.

Arms Talks To Resume; Little Hope For Accord

WASHINGTON (AP) — With prospects considered poor for a settlement anytime soon, American envoys set out today for Vienna and round four of the Soviet-U.S. Strategic Arms Limitation Talks.

Chief U.S. disarmament negotiator Gerard Smith received his final instructions from President Nixon Thursday and left prepared to reject a Soviet proposed limitation on offensive missiles without a simultaneous restriction on offensive weapons system.

The Soviets, on the other hand, have made clear they will not accept a U.S. plan for an offensive-defensive weapons curb unless it includes nuclear-armed American planes assigned to West Europe.

Further dimming the outlook for an accord during the two-month Vienna meeting, which starts Monday, is recent U.S. intelligence indicating the Soviets are building a new intercontinental ballistic missile.

This followed earlier information the Soviets had slowed deployment of their big SS9 missiles—a development some U.S. disarmament proponents read as a sign of Kremlin interest in an arms curb deal.

Nixon, meanwhile, is asking Congress for more money for long-range U.S. atomic weaponry and more ABMs—though with the provision any project ruled out by a SALT agreement would be dropped.

The President told his last news conference the two great powers will reach an agreement because it is in their mutual interest to avoid a nuclear holocaust and spiraling arms spending. But he used the word "eventually" in discussing a time for the accord.

This seems less optimistic than administration statements when the SALT talks began in Helsinki a year and a half ago.
